PEACE POLES IN NEWBERG/DUNDEE

...focal points for contemplation and conversation about creating a less-violent world

As part of a special 2017 Earth Day project, the Newberg Early Bird and Noon Rotary clubs, in conjunction with the Jubitz Foundation, facilitated the planting of 50 Peace Poles in the cities of Newberg and Dundee. The event was marked by 11 different dedication ceremonies across both communities.

Peacebuilding is one of the Rotary organization's main "areas of focus," and this project was conceived as a unique way to manifest the importance of that.

What's a Peace Pole?

A Peace Pole is a monument that displays the message "May Peace Prevail On Earth" on each of its four or six sides, in different languages. There are an estimated 200,000 Peace Poles in 180 countries all over the world. According to the manufacturer of the poles, the 50 planted in Newberg and Dundee represent the largest single undertaking in their project's history.

History

A Japanese survivor of the nuclear bomb dropped on Hiroshima conceived of the idea of the peace pole in 1955. The first one was planted in Japan in 1977 and then the idea started to spread around the world.

Peace lovers of all kinds have been involved in Peace Pole dedications, including the Dalai Lama, Mother Teresa, President Jimmy Carter, Deepak Chopra and John Denver, as well as mayors, clubs and Girl Scouts.

There are Peace Poles on the Allenby Bridge between Israel and Jordan; at the site of the Olympics in Salt Lake City; at the War Museum in Vietnam; at Robben Island in South Africa where Nelson Mandela was imprisoned; at the Pyramids in Egypt, and at schools, churches, synagogues, mosques and temples around the world.

"The idea is for people to come together and learn to talk about peace," said Mike Caruso, Rotary organizer for the local project. "We're always talking about war, about the enemy and how we are going to defeat them. This idea is to have a conversation about peace, about how we can solve our problems without becoming violent."

PEACE POLE WALKING TRAILS

Peace and Conflict Prevention/Resolution

The quest for world understanding and peace has been a cornerstone of Rotary since its earliest days. The quest is very much alive and well in the Newberg Noon Rotary Club– one of the most active Peace-building clubs in all of Rotary District 5100.

Through our service projects, peace fellowships, and scholarships, our members are taking action to address the underlying causes of conflict, including poverty, inequality, ethnic tension, lack of access to education, and unequal distribution of resources.

Our Peacebuilder club is very involved in the local community. Activities include:

- Participation in the week-long Peace Village summer day camp each June to teach children conflict prevention and resolution skills
- Partnering on local events, such as International Peace Day every September 21; Martin Luther King, Jr. Day observations, Earth Day festivities
- Organizing peace conferences and symposiums
- Placement of peace poles around town
- Support of the Cyprus Friendship Program, designed to help bring peace to the divided island through sponsorship of youth education/exchange programs

Rotary International Areas of Focus

The work of Rotary begins in the community, and every community has its own unique needs and concerns. While we serve in countless ways, we've focused our efforts in six key areas to maximize our impact. These areas encompass some of the world's most critical and widespread humanitarian needs, and we have a proven record of success in addressing them:

- Peace and conflict prevention/resolution
- Disease prevention and treatment
- Water and sanitation
- Maternal and child health
- Basic education and literacy
- Economic and community development
